

Sanford Solar Forum Event

Solar energy is taking off in Maine! Come learn more about what happened in 2019 to make this possible and what it could mean for your town, whether you're permitting a project on private land or developing a project to offset your town's energy usage. If you have questions about solar development, this is the time and place to ask them.

When: January 23, 2020. 6:00- 8:00 pm. (Snow date: January 30 6:00-8:00 pm)

Where: Sanford Town Hall, City Council Chambers, 919 Main St, Sanford, ME 04073

What: Solar Energy Panel and Q&A moderated by Kelsey Pelton from Southern Maine Planning and Development Commission. Panel Participants include: Sophie Janeway from the Natural Resources Council of Maine, Steve Buck from Sanford, and Lucy Bullock-Seiger from the Coalition for Community Solar Access.

Why: In 2019, Maine's legislature passed a bill that is helping attract solar development to the state of Maine to lower energy costs, create jobs, and produce local clean energy that's good for our environment. Come learn about how these projects will impact Maine towns, how you can benefit, and ask your questions.

It's free and you're all welcome to join but please RSVP to Kelsey Pelton at KPelton@smpdc.org so we have a head count.

Parking for the event is behind city hall, on Roberts St. and the entrance is at the rear of the building.

We look forward to seeing you on the 30th!

Sincerely,

Kelsey Pelton
